

2012, this is the time of creation, conscious choosing. The symbolism of the end of the Mayan calendar is that "All" is possible. No-thing is yet written. The transformational expansion that many have been called to is in preparation of that which is possible. Veils have been thinned; connection to who WE are is coming into alignment, releasing the illusion of separation. Consciously choosing, choosing consciously, Awakening to what and how we manifest. We have kept time as an illusion to keep with the pace of evolution.

This planet is entraining to the infusion of expanded frequencies with "NEW" information to integrate that offers Humans & all life beings to release old paradigms and create in the present with an immediacy that has not yet been experienced by most. We offer BEing the experience of: What does Love look like in this Moment? Choose, Create!

By Robin Klickstein